Father of Resident Dies at Son's Home

On last Friday, the fourth of this month, Edward Kleber Smith, age 77 years, died at the home of his son, Ashley P. Smith, at 79 E. Highland Avenue, leaving a record of fifty years active service in the business, banking and manufacturing life of Minneapolis, Minnesota.

Mr. Smith with his widow, Mary R. Smith, came out to California something over a year ago in order to be near his son and his daughter, Rose Smith, now a resident of Los Angeles.

He took a special liking to Sierra Madre, never tiring of the panoramic view of the fertile San Gabriel Valley, and always finding renewed inspiration in the close proximity of the mountains. Up until the day of his death he was active both mentally and physically, spending most of his time in the out of doors that he loved so well.

Aside from his son and daughter in California, he leaves a son, Randall W. Smith, County Treasurer of Bayfield County, Wisconsin.

The funeral services were held in Gay's Funeral Parlor, Dr. Rawlings, pastor of the Bethany Church, officiating.

Though Mr. Smith's stay in Sierra Madre had been short, his passing is mourned by the many friends and acquaintances that have come to know him and his son and family.

Special Service at Episcopal Church

At the 11:00 o'clock service at the Church of the Ascension on Sunday morning Dean Shaw will preach on "Limitation of Armaments," and at the 7:30 evening service on "The Bible in the Making."

WOMAN'S CLUB NEWS

The innovation of having a luncheon at the first regular club meeting each month, will be formally launched on Monday, November 14th, when at one o'clock, club members and guests will be served with a plate luncheon, prepared and served under the capable management of Mrs. M. D. Welsher.

J. Seymore Brown, who has recently returned from the Orient, where he was sent on a tour of inspection by the government, will be the luncheon speaker, and will tell of his personal experiences in Japan. Any citizen either man or woman, may attend the luncheon and enjoy these splendid table talks, by purchasing a ticket which same may be purchased at a nominal cost, at the S. M. Electric Company's store on East Central. Tickets will not be purchased after Friday evening, November 11th. Any person desiring an extra table for entertaining a party, will please Mrs. Welsher, Black 87.

An interesting afternoon program which will start at 2:30 instead of at 3:00 as formerly, will include, Mrs. J. J. Carter, President of the Hollywood Sing, who will speak on Community Singing; Miss Kate Bassett, whose subject will be "The Foreign Woman in Our Midst" and our own Mrs. W. R. Morgan, soprano.

Dancing Lessons

Just a reminder, that Madame Dowdell and her assistants will be glad to meet any persons desirous of taking dancing lessons, at the club house, Saturday, Nov. 12, at which time a class will be formed. Instruction will be given from 7:15 to 8:15 after which there will be practice dancing until 10.

Mass Meeting at Club House This Afternoon

Under the auspices of the Woman's Club, a memorial meeting in honor of the Unknown Dead of the World War will be held at the Woman's Club House today at three o'clock.

Rev. W. J. Thompson will deliver the Invocation and there will be addresses by Dean Shaw and Father Woodcutter. Mrs. Hawhurst has arranged a musical program which will include community singing with Mrs. George B. Morgridge at the piano and Mrs. Donald C. Ashmore as leader.

Owing to the tremendous importance of the conference opening in Washington on this Armistice Day with the hope it embodies for the future avoidance of such wars with their toll of lives and suffering, it was considered most appropriate that the women of this city should sponsor a meeting which should be a memorial to that long list of heroes who are classed as the Unknown Dead, and also a voicing of the universal prayer that a real step towards lasting peace may be taken at this conference.

Everyone in Sierra Madre, who can possibly manage to be present, should be found in the Club House at three this afternoon. This meeting should represent the spirit of the whole community. Every one in his heart honors the men who are lying in those unnamed graves—everyone hopes for a peace that shall not be broken. Let every citizen make these feelings articulate and help to swell the number at this meeting.

ILLINOISANS ANNOUNCE PICNIC

The final picnic of the season will be held in Sycamore Grove Park, Los Angeles, all day, Saturday, November 12th with bass.

Under the auspices of the Loyal Illinoisans co-operating with the great Federation of State Societies and with the local organizations of Illinoisans in Pasadena, Long Beach, Whittier, Pomona, Riverside, etc. All the usual attractive features of picnics will be there.

Henry J. Brubaker will preside and lead the community songs. If you want to ask questions, phone C. H. Parsons, 10261, at the Illinois headquarters in the Continental National Bank.

Stadium Seat Sale a Great Success

With the entire membership of the Tournament of Roses behind the movement one of the greatest drives for the promotion of a big athletic plant in Southern California is now in progress to build a million-dollar stadium next year in Pasadena.

The campaign for the public sale of five and ten-year seats in the stadium began last week in Pasadena and within a few days after the opening of the drive hundreds of applicants for the seats had been received by the committee of which A. J. Bertonneau is manager.

In a statement given by Mr. Bertonneau at the Tournament of Roses headquarters in the Pasadena Chamber of Commerce Building, he impressed upon the public the importance of making early application for seats to obtain the best selections available. He said the seats will be sold in the order in which the applications are received.

"Every Californian interested in the promotion of athletic events is supporting our campaign to finance this big stadium," J. J. Mitchell, president of the Tournament of Roses said yesterday. "We expect by an early date in December to complete the sale of all of the eight thousand seats offered for public subscription. When completed this plant will be one of the greatest attractions on the Pacific Coast."

CONGREGATIONAL BAZAAR

The Ladies of the Congregational Church have been very fortunate in procuring Madame Grace Wood-Jess of Los Angeles, for a recital to be given the night of the bazaar, December 2nd.

She is a pupil of Madame Yvette Guilbert, a world famous interpreter of song. Madame Jess has given great pleasure to many noted clubs and is well known to everyone. She will appear in costume.

With her will appear Mr. Oscar Rasback, noted pianist, having studied under Leschetizky while abroad. He has a studio in Los Angeles and has recently come to live in our own city of Sierra Madre.

VOLUME 16, NO. 7

Lest we Forget the Hope for which They Died

Three years ago and today! They have been busy, hustling years, how many of us can remember how we felt this time three years ago?

Just about the time of day this little sheet is going out to you people three years ago the world seemed to have gone mad. Pandemonium reigned, bells ringing, sirens blowing and surging hysterical mobs, rushing up and down the streets, calling that Peace had come—Thank God, Peace!

Not everybody was shouting in the streets. In many and many a quiet room there was thankfulness but there was an awful grief that prevented any joining in the wild celebration. Thank God for Peace, yes, but oh, the boys whose sacrifice had made peace possible but who would never come back to enjoy the fruits of peace!

Not many of these have forgotten that first Armistice Day. Many of the loudest shouters and the noisiest celebrants have. The struggle for money and pleasure have pushed that day and its real significance into the background. It is so easy to forget.

But that hard won peace—that peace which cost so great a price, is the world to keep it, or is the horrible tale to tell over again as soon as some nation feels strong enough to risk it?

Our President has issued a proclamation asking each and every one of us to stop our busy lives today and spend two minutes in silent prayer for our beloved country—that she may have lasting peace. Two minutes, and how many of us have done it?

There are meetings here and meetings there, there has been that beautiful ceremony at Arlington for the Unknown Dead this morning, the limitation of armaments conference opens with a prayer, but how many of us are genuinely, heartfelty praying for peace?

"More things are wrought by prayer than this world dreams of!" Suppose we make this prayer for peace a daily habit, two minutes every day, not just Armistice Day. Suppose we give two minutes a day to unselfish thoughts for the real good of this wonderful America of ours—the good of the nation, not our individual good.

So many of those boys who didn't come back went into the conflict inspired by the thought that they were giving their lives that such a war should not be possible again—that a different way of settling the world's disputes was to be the final fruit of that sowing of death.

Shall we be traitors to them and their hope for the future because they are lying so silent now? Or shall we on this Armistice Day reconsecrate ourselves to a purer patriotism and resolve that our thought, our prayer, our every influence shall be for the making of that hope of theirs into an effective reality?

To Women of Sierra Madre Who Are the City's Pioneers

The talk about the Red Cross Roll Call has naturally brought to mind some of the Red Cross work during the war and inevitably the part played by the women comes before ones mental vision. From that, to thinking about the part played by the women in the development of this town, is just an easy step and suddenly one realizes that if it hadn't been for the women, there might not have been much of a town.

Way back in the early times, the women were the ones who organized the church societies and gave the entertainments and suppers which played so large a part in the social life of the new community and, as the town grew, their activity grew.

The city of today and the city of tomorrow owes a big debt of gratitude to those forward looking women who organized the Womens Club and by their unwavering faith in the future of the city and the need for the club work, made it the powerful instrument for community upbuilding which it has been and still is.

In those days the financing of the ten thousand dollar project of the Club House was much more of an undertaking in proportion to the town than the building of the Firemen's Club today. And how the women worked to pay off the debt. Dinners and dances and parties—they gave and they worked and then they went and paid for their own things!

All the time they were working to clear the debt, they were doing a much bigger thing for the community life. The Club House furnished the central point around which all the social life of the community centered. The club programs and sections brought the women of this little town into close touch with the larger activities of women everywhere. Their outlook broadened and the beneficial effect was reflected in many phases of the community life. In the common interest aroused by the club work, many old breaches were healed.

It was the Woman's Club which inaugurated that series of wonderful flower festivals which became famous throughout the whole southern part of the state—flower shows which ranked with anything Pasadena or Los Angeles could stage, the greatest advertising the city ever had.

There were some who expressed fear that the club work would take the women away from their home and church interests, but it didn't work out that way. The churches grew and flourished and when the war came along, the Red Cross profited by the lessons the women had learned in efficiency and administration, and the Sierra Madre Chapter, one of the first three in this state, made a record for itself that will always be one of the bright pages in any history of the town. The boys who went into the service from this little town were proof enough of the kind of mothers the women of Sierra Madre were.

Today the women are still playing their part just as capably as ever. In club, in church, in home, in the Red Cross and all the other activities, the Sierra Madre women are always to be found working for the community betterment. When the time comes for handing around the nice large bouquets, the women deserve some on their own account. Yes, Sierra Madre owes quite some "thank yous" to her women.

We have been wondering lately if there is any law against repairing the traffic sign on the base of the flagpole. It certainly has a down-at-heel, delapidated appearance and as it is one of the first things the visitor to town sees, it might not be a bad stunt to make it look shipshape. Either that or take the signs off altogether. If they aren't any good, get rid of them—if they are good, have them in proper shape.

We sometimes wonder if the average citizen of this burg realizes what a tremendous amount of social service work is accomplished in this little community, taking into account the activities of all the organizations as well as individual effort. And the women deserve a lion's share of the credit for some of the good things that are put over.

Sierra Madre, Cal.
November 3, 1921

Dear Sir:—

Some time ago your paper was boosting a trade at home movement showing the advantage it would bring to Sierra Madre.

This trade at home movement would be a great thing for our city if the merchants were behind such a movement in the proper way. This means the best quality of goods sold at the least possible margin of profit.

The present aim of our worthy merchants, is to gouge all the profits the trade will stand. Consequently we have prices from fifteen to fifty per cent above their city competitors, with the exceptions of a few staple articles, such as Bull Durham, etc.

Here in Sierra Madre where rent, overhead and labor, are much cheaper these conditions should not exist.

Even in our family of five, the return fare to Pasadena can be saved on meat alone, leaving a clear saving of fifteen to fifty per cent on other commodities.

So in conclusion, I say I would like to see our merchants wake up, realize the war is over, come down to a legitimate profit, get behind this trade at home movement and push it to a grand success.

Yours truly,
FRED TOTTON.

To the Editor of the News:

I have been interested in watching to see some definite results of your trade at home campaign and I have taken the trouble to price many articles in the stores in this town since it started.

I find that many of your merchants have very fair prices for their goods—in some instances lower than similar things in Los Angeles. But I think the chief cause for complaint is to be found with the provision merchants. No fair minded person can help feeling that the prices here for food stuffs are more than they should be.

I realize that the small town merchant has expenses in excess of his town competitor in many lines. He cannot buy in such large quantity, his loss on spoilage is greater proportionately, and he has his delivery service expense.

The person who calls up over the telephone and wants a loaf of bread and a bunch of spinach delivered at the other end of town is adding to the expense of everything in the store, but delivery seems a necessary evil.

But what I want to get at is this: I come into a grocery store with my basket, pay cash and I carry my stuff home and I pay just the same price as the woman who gives her order by phone and has it delivered. The people who buy in the city and carry the stuff home are willing to take that trouble for the sake of saving a few cents on each article. Would it not be possible for the merchants to give a certain per cent off to the customers who come in and carried home their own stuff? Not say, "You can have a can of beans for twenty-five cents and this s as cheap as we can sell it," but, "This can of beans costs you twenty-five cents delivered. Come in and pay cash and carry it home and you can have it for so much less." Wouldn't it be worth a trial?

I live near one of the merchants and I notice that so many things are taken in a personal way which aren't meant that way. So will you please not print my name though I am not at all unwilling to express my opinions.

Our City 33 Years Ago

The following items are from the Sierra Madre Vista of June 16th, 1888. They fought H. C. L. with bear steak in those days and it surely is interesting to read the school department records of some of present staid business men.

Emile Deutsch and family are going to spend several weeks at Redondo Beach, and will be accompanied by R. A. Dixon and wife.

Prof. John Hart left Thursday for a visit to some of the states east of the Rocky Mountains. Quite a number of Sierra Madre people are now east.

Mr. N. C. Carter left for the east Thursday last. He will take in the convention at Chicago and afterwards go on to Massachusetts. He will be away about four weeks.

A letter has been received from Mr. C. M. Clark, dated at Salt Lake, June 9th. He says Mrs. Clark is in better health than when she left here, and is enjoying the trip as they all are. There are 92 in the party. From Salt Lake they go to Denver. From there to Colorado Springs, where they will stop for two or three days to visit Manitou, the Garden of the Gods, and, if they like, the summit of Pike's Peak. Thence they go on east and expect to arrive in Boston next Friday. Mr. Clark reports pretty warm weather at the date of writing.

Miss Alma Jones, daughter of Mrs. C. B. Jones, returned last Saturday from England where she has been the last three years at school. The first two years were spent at the famous preparatory school at Rugby. During the past year she has been at the Newnham Seminary, where she was fortunate in being under the special charge of the Principal, Mrs. Clough, who called Miss Alma her California daughter and gave her a motherly care and attention. The Vice-Principal of this great educational institution is Miss Gladstone, a daughter of the grand old English statesman. Miss Jones returned on the Etruria in its recent trip, when it beat the record for fast time across the Atlantic.

Mr. L. L. Ferry, accompanied by Mrs. C. H. Ferry and little Charlie, left Thursday last for a four month's visit to the old home and friends in the east. Most of the time will be spent in Minnesota. Their many friends here will miss them, and while wishing them much pleasure in their journeyings, will hope for their speedy return.

P. T. Reed and his party of hunters and campers returned from their trip into the mountains last Monday. They found a new camp where game was plenty, and bagged eight deer and a cinnamon bear weighing over 300 pounds. And there is no discount on this bear; for Mr. Reed remembered us to the extent of a fine tenderloin, and we found we had not forgotten what a bear steak tastes like in the dozen years that have elapsed since we last enjoyed the luxury in the Rocky Mountains. As to the eight hundred fish said to have been taken—well, we haven't seen a mountain trout this season.

Woman Proves a Good Administrator

Women in general can make a dollar go farther than a man, and a certain type of woman can make more dollars go.

In one western state a woman has made a 10-year record as administrator equalled by very few men in handling a public institution.

This woman conducts a large dormitory at the Oregon State Normal school and has made it pay and earn good money from the beginning.

Students get better board and room than most hotels furnish, for $7.00 a week, including light, heat, baths, laundry and gymnasium.

Many of them earn their way by doing work at fair pay by the hour and each year the dormitory earns about ten thousand dollars surplus.

Last year Miss Todd built a beautiful English colonial style cottage and furnished it out of her profits, that houses twenty-eight students.

All the equipments from blankets to table lamps are of the best. The best bread is baked daily for less than three cents a loaf.

The kitchen is supplied with the most modern machinery, such as meat grinders, vegetable cutters, bread molders, dish washers, electric ovens.

Instead of being a burden on the tax-payers Miss Todd pays her own way, gives 100 per cent service and any state might be proud to have as efficient a person for governor.

Rust Threatens State's Sugar Pine

The work of the fungus parasite that leads a dual life was seen by the foresters of 21 states at the annual meeting of the State Foresters' Association held this year at Chester-town, New York, according to Merritt B. Pratt, California Deputy State Forester, who recently returned from a trip East, during which time he attended the meeting. The White Pine Blister Rust, a forest tree disease which is doing severe damage to the white pines in the eastern states, was the central topic of the conference. The fungus which causes this disease can harm the white pines only after a period of growth on currant or gooseberry leaves.

This disease has become prevalent throughout the New England States, and Minnesota, but has not yet been found on the Pacific Coast. Sugar Pine is susceptible to the Blister Rust, and western foresters agree that, should the disease become established in California it would speedily become the most serious forest tree pest in the State, not even excepting the destructive Pine Bark Beetle, which at present is doing considerable damage in the lumbering sections.

There are 62 different kinds of wild currants and gooseberries native to the Pacific Coast, and if the Blister Rust should gain a foothold in this region it would be very hard to combat on account of the difficulty of eradicating the currants and gooseberries which spread the disease.

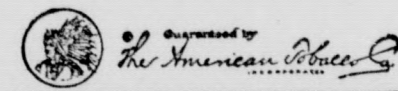

A rigid quarantine against the shipment into California of white pine trees and currant and gooseberry bushes is being maintained by the State Department of Agriculture in cooperation with the State Board of Forestry to prevent the introduction of Pine Blister Rust into the State. A federal quarantine, prohibiting the shipment of nursery stock of this kind from eastern states west of the Mississippi River is a further protection. The State Board of Forestry, however, urges the cooperation of the people in protecting the California Sugar Pine by allowing no white pine trees or currant or gooseberry bushes to be shipped to them from outside the State.

Trio Will Sing In Choir Sunday

Mrs. Randolph Wood who has charge of the choir music of the Episcopal Church for November and December has arranged for the presentation of the trio, "I Waited for The Lord" from Mendelssohn's "Hymn of Praise," for the morning service, next Sunday, with Mrs. Hawhurst, Ist soprano, Mrs. Wood, 2nd soprano and Mrs. James Hawks, contralto. These three voices blend unusually well and the trio contemplate doing much musical work together this season.

"Built for Hard Use and Abuse" Little Pals JUVENILE FOOTWEAR

Our experience has been that parents are disappointed when they select footwear for their children that is cheaply constructed. Shoes cannot be made too good for youngsters. The rough, abusive wear that young folks give shoes demands the toughest leather, the strongest seams and sensibly shaped shoes. That's why we highly recommend "Little Pals" in preference to all other kinds. Although they cost a few cents more, that slight extra cost means double wear.

BUY UNITY PRODUCTS—THE QUALITY IS RIGHT, THE PRICE IS RIGHT

Annual Bazaar of Women's Guild to Be Held at Club House Thursday

The annual bazaar of the Women's Guild of the Church of the Ascension which will be held this year at the Woman's Club House Thursday and Friday afternoons and evenings of next week, is more than just a church affair—it is an event in the community life.

The Episcopal Church was the first church built here and the bazaar, planned by the Women's Guild, and held in the old Town Hall, were the first entertainments of this kind in the history of the town. The dramatic performances which were given in conjunction with them by local talent, were often the only dramatic entertainments of the year. These first plays were the basis of the remarkable reputation Sierra Madre has for amateur theatricals and the ability of the amateur actors, and year by year that reputation has grown.

During the afternoons, attractive articles of all kinds will be for sale at the different booths. The members of the Guild have been working industriously for several weeks and all sorts of beautiful and utilitarian things have been made. Mrs. Shaw and Mrs. T. M. Webster are in charge of the fancy work booth; Mrs. Appleby, the domestic table; the book department will be handled by Mrs. Lee Lyon and the candy booth is under the direction of Mrs. Goodfellow; the children's corner is planned. Mrs. Fred Griebnow and, as usual, Mrs. Dietz will preside over the cooked food section with all the toothsome things that lady always gathers up from the culinary experts of the town. The girls of the Order of St. Catherine will have a table of assorted articles, Mrs. Roland Adams, their President, having charge. This will be a splendid chance to do some of that early Christmas shopping every one resolves about.

At 5:30 each day one of those famous chicken suppers will be served. Mrs. Welsher is in charge of that department and that in itself is enough for those who have sampled the results of that efficient lady's directing, but just for good measure we will add that Mrs. Ingraham is her right hand man and Mrs. Turner, the enteress, will be on the job, while Mrs. Tom Henderson supervises the dining room and sees that the service is right up to the minute.

The play, "It Pays to Advertise," will commence at eight P. M. This year, it is to be repeated a third night, Saturday, as it has been found that all who wish to come can not be accommodated the two nights. So much time and effort has been expended on the preparation of the play and it is a production of so much merit, that there is no doubt that it will play to capacity houses all three nights. Audiences at these performances the past few years have stretched the seating capacity of the Club House to the utmost. Reserved seats have been on sale at Hartman's for some days, so don't put off getting those tickets too long.

Mrs. Probst, the professional director, has expressed herself as delighted with the acting material supplied her as she feels the various people are peculiarly well fitted to their parts. Tom Henderson, as "Ambrose Peale," the energetic young man the first and last letter of whose creed is "It Pays to Advertise," gives a characterization which will outshine any of his previous successes, while Hall Perry, as the son of the wealthy soap manufacturer who needs converting, plays opposite him most convincingly.

Helen Williams, who needs no introduction to Sierra Madre audiences whom she has delighted many times before, will impersonate the clever young business woman, secretary to Cyrus Martin, the soap manufacturer, played by Mr. Rhodes. Mrs. James Hawks will be an impressive Countess, hurling rapid fire French at a dazed business firm and Jim Hawks will have a small part, that of Ellery Clark, whose reported business acumen is responsible for the starting of the whole tangle, and James can be counted on to make it one of the hits of the play in his own inimitable way.

Other parts which all call for skillful interpretation to make a well rounded whole of the performance will be capably handled by Gladys Walker as a French maid, Louise Pearson as an office clerk, Charles Klunk as butler, Mr. Dietz and Mr. Sperry as business men and Mr. Gay as an old friend of Cyrus Martin's.

Mrs. H. Hawhurst is in charge of the stage arrangements and has to perform the miracle of making a change of setting on that stage which hasn't any wings to take care of the change. Nobody is worrying however, for fear the settings won't be up to the rest of the production.

Local musicians have volunteered their services for incidental music before and during the performance. Mr. Randolph Wood will have charge the first night, Mr. Edward Melvin the second, while a surprise is being planned for the third, Saturday night. On the latter, if it is desired, after the performance, there will be a short time devoted to dancing.

Firemen's Party Heap Big Time

The dinner and dance given by the Firemen's Club Wednesday night was the howling success everybody knew it was going to be. The two hundred tickets were sold out long before the time for starting and the put-off citizens who had waited till the last minute found they were left out in the cold just as they had been warned they would be.

The tables were set in the auditorium and under the artistic direction of Mr. Frank Monroe Smith had been beautifully decorated for the occasion. That refers to the floral part. The food decorations were also beautiful and most satisfactory besides, judging by the way the two hundred hungry Sierra Madrans got away with them.

The Kids Orchestra held forth with enlivening music and the Club held a business meeting between courses. This was the regular club meeting night and President Topping did his best but it was a slightly hectic meeting. It is so hard to vote intelligently when ones mouth is full. Treasurer Dietz gave a financial statement and talked about thousands just as if they were nickels. He said them too fast for the reporter to be able to get them straight but the substance of it all was that the Club, when they get their quota of two hundred members, with the life memberships and donations already on hand, will have about twelve thousand dollars by the first of next July, when the first year ends. The building will cost in the neighborhood of $17,000 and the extra five isn't worrying them at all—they have a hunch they are going to get it.

President Topping made the suggestion that the Club, as long as everything was so bright and rosy with them that they might do something to make Christmas a little brighter for the people in this town who are far from home and friends and who might find that anniversary a cloudy day. The idea was received with enthusiasm and Mayor Mitchell, with that easy flow of language which always distinguishes him, suggested a Christmas Eve festival and a tree to which gifts should be brought which would be distributed the following day by the Firemen to those whose day needed a little brightening up.

The Mayor spoke feelingly of what it meant to be far from home and loved ones on these anniversaries which are so bound up with home memories and his motion that the Firemen undertake this for the community in the Christmas spirit of goodwill was overwhelmingly carried. The details will be worked out between now and Christmas but the Club House has been engaged for the Christmas Eve celebration.

After the dinner, the floor was cleared and the dance was on. Many who could not obtain tickets for the dinner came later to the dance and the floor was crowded all evening. Altogether it was one of the most enjoyable and successful affairs that have ever been staged in that Club House and that's some record.

The Order of St. Catherine will hold their meeting next Thursday at the residence of Mrs. C. Hall Perry, 118 E. Laurel Ave. The final work on articles for the table at the bazaar next week must be completed at this time and all members are requested to make a special effort to be present.

The Womans Club Card Party given by the Philanthropy Committee last Friday evening was a financial as well as social success about thirty-five dollars being realized which will be used for local needs in any way the chairman, Mrs. J. T. Mason, approves. Many handsome prizes were given for those having the highest scores.

Mrs. J. G. Blumer entertained the Ancient Priellans on Tuesday at her home, 369 N. Auburn Avenue. This organization is in its twenty-first year and there are only seven members living now: Mr. W. S.
